

Talks marked ☾ will begin at 8pm EDT. All other talks will begin at 12:30pm EDT.
 All talks will take place over Zoom - click the speaker's name or contact seapgatty@cornell.edu to register.

February

11 ☾

Joe Pittayaporn, Chulalongkorn University//Department of Linguistics
Old Thai and the Arrival of Thai in Central Thailand

18

Cherubim Quizon, Seton Hall University//Department of Sociology, Anthropology, Social Work and Criminal Justice
Beyond Bloody Reds: Notes on the Significance of Morinda in the Bagobo Textile Hierarchy

25

John Burgess, Independent Author and Journalist
Cambodia's Angkor Temples as a Military Prize: The World War II Experience

March

4 ☾

Mai Van Tran, Cornell//Department of Government
Activist Resilience under Repression: The Role of Bystander Protection in the Burmese Pro-Democracy Movement

11

Alexandra Dalferro, Cornell//Department of Anthropology
Knots as Nodes of Power: Practices of Pattern-making and Discourses of Copying among Silk Weavers in Surin

April

1

Anthony Irwin, Cornell//Society of Humanities
Everybody Gets a Sword! The Production and Proliferation of Buddhist Ritual Weaponry in Northern Thailand

8

Ronit Ricci, Hebrew University of Jerusalem//Departments of Asian Studies and Religion
Title TBA

22

Gavin Douglas, UNC Greensboro//Departments of Ethnomusicology and Anthropology
Sound, Music, and Buddhism in Myanmar/Burma

29

Juliet Lu, Cornell//Atkinson Center for Sustainability, Department of Development Sociology
South of the Clouds, North of the Nagas: Yunnan's Changing Role in the Mekong Region

May

6 ☾

Ian Baird, University of Wisconsin-Madison//Department of Geography
Rise of the Brao: Ethnic Minorities in Northeastern Cambodia During Vietnamese Occupation

13

Vinh Phu Pham, Cornell//Department of Comparative Literature
Configuring the Future in Vietnamese Francophone: Readings of Marguerite Duras, Pham Duy Khiêm, and Kim Lefèvre

Ronald and Janette Gatty Lecture Series

Accommodation requests: seap@cornell.edu

<http://seap.einaudi.cornell.edu/>

These talks are partially funded by the US Department of Education as part of SEAP's designation as a National Resource Center, and by GPSAFC.